Fort Lauderdale Chapter chartered December 8, 1966

Volume 54 Number 7

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Compatriots and Friends,

Whew! This has been a busy month.

Since our last meeting, I continued to work with three prospective members -- Peter DeWick, Jim McHugh and Lincoln Pero – in order to complete their applications. I am pleased to report that this has been accomplished. I anticipate all to be approved between the end of August to early September 2023. Our net 2023 membership is now at 72, and it is evident that more will be added before year end.

At our June 17, 2023, General Membership Meeting, I announced that we would recognize in subsequent Chapter Newsletters and at Chapter Meetings a Revolutionary War Era event occurring between 1764-1783. This is in observance of SAR's 250th Anniversary Recognition Program. Newly elected Chapter Historian, Kevin Shurte, has agreed to work with me on this initiative. For this month, his report on the 1775 Olive Branch Petition follows on page 3.

On June 24, 2023, the Chapter hosted a Donut Saturday at the Alexander Nininger State Veterans Nursing Home. A separate article on this subject follows on page 4.

On June 27, 2023, Florida Sons of Liberty Brigade Commander, Scott Breckinridge, approved our camp's name which is the Samuel Nicholas Camp #23. A separate article on this subject follows on page 5.

On June 30, 2023, the H.S. White Corporation was presented a flag display recognition certificate by Chapter representative, Kevin Shurte. Company representative, Amanda J. Barnes, accepted our certificate and proceeded to present the Chapter with a corporate donation of $750. More information on this event is separately reported in the article that follows on page 3.

Also on June 30, 2023, Joe Motes and I finished and submitted three grant reimbursement requests totaling $1,500 to representatives of the FLSSAR Endowment Trust Fund.

For the last couple of months, we have discussed the impending move of Joe Motes to the Jacksonville area. Joe has advised me that he now expects to move in August and that our July 29, 2023, will be the last meeting that he plans to attend - at least for 2023. I encourage all active members to attend and wish Joe well at the July 29, 2023, General Membership Meeting.

AMERICA 250 SEMIQUINCENTENNIAL -
THE OLIVE BRANCH PETITION – JULY 5, 1775
By Kevin R. Shurte

In a letter to his wife, Abigail, John Adams wrote that July 2nd would forever be commemorated as the “epocha” of American history – this being the day that the Continental Congress had initially declared America’s freedom. Instead, July 4, the day Congress approved the final draft of the Declaration, was to become the universally celebrated date of America’s birth. However, just 364 days prior, the Continental Congress had drafted a lesser-known document that could have forever changed the future of the American colonies. That document came to be known as the Olive Branch Petition of July 5, 1775.

In the years following the French and Indian War (1754-1763), the British Parliament enacted a series of tax laws on the American colonies intended to reduce an approximate £133 million national debt, nearly half of which had been accrued during the war. These laws included the Sugar Act (1764), Stamp Act (1765), and Townshend Acts (1767, 1768) which levied taxes on sugar/molasses, printed materials, and various British imports respectively. Colonists resented these levies believing that Parliament had no right taxing a people who had no representation in government. These acts led to much civil unrest in the colonies which prompted Parliament to further pass a series of new laws known as the Coercive Acts of 1774.

The Coercive, or Intolerable Acts, as they were collectively known in the colonies, specifically punished the Massachusetts Colony by blockading Boston Harbor, limiting representative self-government, and eliminating the right to trial by a jury of one’s peers. The final Intolerable Act, which applied to all thirteen of the colonies, required colonists to quarter British soldiers at their own expense. These acts caused dissent in the colonies and were deciding factors leading up to the outbreak of the American Revolution.

Following the first battles at Lexington and Concord and Bunker Hill, Congress adopted the Olive Branch Petition as a final appeal to King George III for reconciliation between the North American colonies and Britain. It was composed by John Dickinson of Pennsylvania, and signed by delegates from twelve of the thirteen colonies, excepting Georgia whose delegates were not yet in attendance. The ornately written petition promised loyalty to the crown and pleaded with the king to intervene on behalf of his “faithful subjects” regarding what the delegates perceived as parliamentary overreach.

The Olive Branch Petition sought to reassure the British monarch of American colonial allegiance while explaining the just resistance of the colonies to the injustices they had suffered at the hands of an unjust Parliament – but it was not to be. King George refused to accept or even read Congress’s plea and declared the colonies to be in open revolt thereby setting in motion the events leading up to American independence which Congress officially declared 364 days later.

FLAG DISPLAY RECOGNITION - H.S. WHITE CORPORATION
By Kevin R. Shurte

The Sons of the American Revolution periodically presents certificates of commendation to recognize individuals, companies, and governmental agencies who proudly fly the flag of the United States. On June 30, 2023, the Fort Lauderdale Chapter SAR recognized H.S. White Corporation of Pompano Beach for patriotically displaying the American flag outside their place of business. At the beginning and ending of each business day, a company designee raises and lowers the flag flying at 1350 S. Dixie Highway East. On behalf of the Fort Lauderdale Chapter, SAR member Kevin R. Shurte presented a certificate of commendation to Amanda J. Barnes, Vice President of Marketing. H.S. White Corporation is actively involved in the local community and has been a leading supplier of marine and industrial gaskets, hoses, and expansion joints for more than 80 years.

Also at the June 30, 2023 presentation, the H.S. White Corporation made a $750 donation to the Fort Lauderdale Chapter SAR in order to help us carry out our historic, patriotic and educational programs serving Broward County.

SAMUEL NICHOLAS CAMP #23 By Chuck Adams and Kevin Shurte

Earlier this year, sufficient interest was expressed by Chapter members to explore the formation of the first Fort Lauderdale Color Guard. Several Zoom meetings were held with those interested, and the first order of business was to review options and costs for colonial military and civilian attire. The consensus of the group was to adopt militia attire as the standard dress for our initial color guardsmen. This was agreed to in order to keep costs affordable as well as to present a consistent appearance for our guardsmen. Having secured commitments from at least five Compatriots, we next pursued how to obtain approval by the Florida Society. We also started exchanging ideas for a camp name. We planned to finalize how to proceed at the May 19-20, 2023, meeting of the Florida Board of Management (BOM). The approval by the Florida Society was done by a handshake on May 19, 2023, after discussions by Chuck Adams with the outgoing (Steve Fields) and incoming (Scott Breckenridge) Commanders of the Florida Sons of Liberty Brigade Color Guard. Kevin Shurte attended the BOM in militia attire and was invited to participate in the presentation of colors at both evening banquets. At the BOM, further ideas were gathered on selecting a camp name that would have Revolutionary War significance for Fort Lauderdale and Broward County. A theme that might capture or touch on history related to the Continental Navy was suggested. Armed with this information, Kevin Shurte did further research on the formation of the Continental Navy which led us to the realization that an early and significant naval engagement called the Battle of Nassau was fought about 190 miles southeast off of our coast, and that the land assault was led by Samuel Nicholas who is recognized as the first Commandant of the United States Marine Corps. After presenting this research and proposal in a Zoom meeting with the initial subscribers to the Fort Lauderdale Color Guard, that name was approved and forwarded for approval to state. The June 27, 2023, e-mail reply from Florida Sons of Liberty Brigade Color Guard Commander, Scott Breckinridge, said "Chuck, I really like it...Bravo Zulu to you and your guardsmen for the excellent research. The official name is.... "Samuel Nicholas Camp #23".

The initial subscribers to the Samuel Nicholas Camp #23 Color Guard, all having purchased militia attire, are: Chuck Adams, Thomas Carpenter Jr, Steve De Paul, Tim McLane, Mark Snider, and Kevin Shurte. The article that follows provides a biographical sketch on Major Samuel Nicholas.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH - MAJOR SAMUEL NICHOLAS

Major Samuel Nicholas is considered the first Commandant of the Marine Corps, having been the highest ranking officer of the Continental Marines when Congress disbanded the Continental Navy and Marine Corps after the end of the Revolutionary War in 1783.

Samuel Nicholas was born in 1744 in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, a son of Quakers. On November 10, 1775, the Continental Congress resolved to establish the Continental Marines. This date is recognized as the birth of the United States Marine Corps. Shortly thereafter, at the age of 31, he was commissioned as a Captain in the Marines.

By January 1776, Samuel Nicholas had recruited enough volunteers to form five companies of marines for service in the Continental Navy stationed out of Philadelphia. He led the detachment of marines serving aboard the ship Alfred under the overall command of Commodore Esek Hopkins. On March 3, 1776, Nicholas landed 250 marines and sailors at Nassau, Bahamas in the first-ever Marine amphibious assault. The Battle of Nassau was an enormous success securing dozens of cannons, several mortars, and valuable stores of gunpowder. Samuel Nicholas and his marine detachment remained on the Alfred which, on April 6, 1776, engaged off the coast of Rhode Island in the first naval battle between an American squadron and the British navy.

Following this action, Nicholas was promoted to major and recalled to Philadelphia where he recruited and trained three companies of marines. He took many of these men with him when he joined Washington's forces in preparation for the December 1776 Christmas Day surprise attack on the Hessians encamped at Trenton, New Jersey. Nicholas' marines were placed under the command of General John Cadwalader but due to severe weather were unable to cross the Delaware River in sufficient numbers to join in the fighting at Trenton. However, on January 3, 1777, Nicholas and his marines joined Washington's army at the Battle of Princeton in the Continental Marines first-ever land battle. Nicholas and the Continental Marines fought in several skirmishes over the next several months, but in June 1778 Nicholas was transferred back to Philadelphia where he served in administrative, recruiting and training roles. After the war, Nicholas returned to civilian life running the family tavern in Philadelphia. He died there on August 27, 1790, during a yellow fever epidemic, and is buried in the Friends Burial Ground.
